Ir is a most unusual thing for monarchs tended for publication in the newspaper press. But inasmuch as the London Daily Telegraph announces that the interview with His Majesty the KAISER which it publishes was communicated to it on "unimpeachable authority," we may take it that His Majesty has deemed this to be cial reforms of a sweeping character are the most effectual way of combatting the suspicions in England, engendered by Germany's programme of naval expansion. Had the EMPEROR confined his observations entirely to that question it is very probable that His Mojesty's explanations would have promptly had the influence and effect desired, but the remarkable utterances which practically ascribe England's success in the war against the Boers to the assistnuce given by His Majesty in response to a -grief-stricken letter from Queen Victoria are of so startling and sensational a character that they will probably obscure for a time the main purpose of the interview. His refusal to personal insult will doubtless be checked. receive the Boer delegates, he said, caused though the public opinion of England is the collapse of the effort of the Boers to not by any means prepared to accept the secure European intervention in the war; and he declined the invitation of France and Russia to join in humiliating England by intervening when the war was at its height, conciliatory to England.

as these-statements, abviously are, in this connection, as proofs of His MAJESTE'S strong friendship for England, they cannot but stir the recollection of certain historical declarations by the German Chancellor which are placed by these revelations in quite a new light. "For us," said Count you Buzzow, the Chancellor, intervention was precluded by the gene ral international situation, as well as by Assaye." our special German interests." These interests were not defined, and we are left to surmise whether the special German interests alluded to were the interests attaching to friendship with England. But the KAISER'S further comments on the Boer | paid a visit to Hongkong. war will excite the greatest interes: During to black week of 1899, the KAISER said, "he replied sympathetically to a grief-stricken letter from QUEBN VICTORIA and ordered one of his officers to furnish an exact opposing forces. He further caused a plan of campaign to be worked out, which was aubmitted to the General Staff, and afterwards forwarded to Eugland, it being remarked as a curious coincidence that the plan adopted by Lord ROBERTS was much on the same lines." While it must be confessed that this is very substantial proof of friendship to England, the suggestion that it was to German Military intellegence and strategy that the British army owed its successful termination of the war will leave a sting that robs the unceasing friendship following by General Pole-Carew : -" I would story of something of its sweetness. In the LADIES', GENTLEMEN'S AND CHIL- circumstances which prevailed when Lord DREN'S HAIR BRUSHES, MILITARY ROBERTS went out to South Africa it is OVAL HAIR BRUSHES IN LEATHER not remarkable that his plan should have. the KAISER states that he forwarded to England. It was obvious to most POLISHERS, NAIL SCISSORS. AND military men at the time that Lord FILES, MANICURE SETS, TOJLET AND ROBERTS could have followed no other with SHAVING MIRRORS, SHAVING SETS, the same assurance of success and though it may have been a "cullous coincidence that the operations conducted by Lord

ROBERTS followed very closely the plan drawn up by the KAISER, it does not nocessarily tollow that the British military authorities adopted that plan in preference to any plan of their own, or even that Lord Konerrs' plan was inspired by that of the German Emperor. Apart from the question as to whether it was actually the Kaiser's plan that was followed, this confession of His Majesty that while Germany was publicly committed to an attitude of strict neutrality, he was privately communicating to England in formation from his officers of the disposi tion of the Boer forces, and actually suggesting a plan of campaigu, must come as a startling bit of information to the chancelleries of Europe. It does seem extraordinary that the Kaiser should have given himself away to the world in this manner, and this feature of the interview will not, we imagine, be soon forgotten His Majesty's defence of his naval policy but little less startling than the other features of the statement. We take the meaning of this defence to be that the growing naval strength of the Asiatic Powers threatens danger to European commerce. No one. His Majesty remarked, could foresec the possibilities of the Far East in-At Manila, on 30th October at 10 a.m., Mr. days not so far distant as some would have us believe. It would have been extremel interesting to have HIS MAJESTY'S views on this subject in greater detail. it is we can only surmise that the KAISER is looking forward to the time when China will have provided herself with a powerful navy which, united to that of Japan, might be in a position to dictate to Europe. If that represents the outlook in His bare their minds to the Majesty's mind, we fear he will not beable by means of an "interview" in to persuade the world that there is any early prospect of China possessing a navy which will constitute a menace to European interests in the Pacific. That China will one day possess such a navy there can be no doubt whatever. The ambition exists, but before it can be achieved administrative and finan-

are inclined to think that on the whole His Majesty's indiscreet explanations will prove more embarrassing to Germany than necessary. How soon these may come no man can tell. In this part of the world the future is certainly pregnant with great possibilities and to count those possibilities and prepare to meet them is the highest form of statesmanship. Now that the British nation is told from-the mouth of the Karsen himself what ideas have inspired Germany's naval expansion scheme and that Hrs Majestr anticipates that the fleets of the misrepresentation and suspicion which His Majrary has so deeply resented as a KAISER'S view of the "yellow peril."

The Oxford University Press is about to publish a sumptuous work on Chinese Porcelain, the work of Hsiang Ynan-P'ien, a celebrated connoisseur of the 16th century of our era. This was in the form of an illustrated manuscript catalogue, which was destroyed by fire in London Happily careful copies had been made, and one of these has been translated and annotated by Dr. S. W. Bushell, C.M.G. M.D., of Peking, who died a month ago, The original album oame into Dr. Bushell's possession twenty years ago, and, when shown, excited much interest. FROM THE "MANILL CABLERYWS." THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

Washington, October 24. The entire Cabinet is stumping the country for the candidace of Mr. Toft and the situation is growing so interesting that it is rumoured President Roosevelt will enter the lists with a speech at Chicago. This is the first time in many years that Washington has been denuded of the heads of the Government departments for political purposes solely and the first time within the memory of the oldest inhabitants that the Cabinet has taken to the stump in a Presidential campaign, Indianapolis, October 24th. The tour of Mr. Taft through Indiana has been most satisfactory to the campaign managers. Wherever he has gone he has been received with enthusiasm and the leaders are now predicting that the State will give the Republicans a substantial majority. The majority of meetings that have been held have evidently needs attention. been well attended and the people have been most demonstrative. Mr. Taft bas expressed himself as highly satisfied with the prospects.

Chicago, October 24. The sensation of the day is the bitler attack that has been made on Speaker Cannon Senator La Follette of Wisconsin during the campaign speech. The Wisconsin Senator who is trying to help along the Taft candidacy although he has a very poor opinion of some of the Taft lieutenants, is particularly ant-| agonistic to the Speaker of the House. He stated that Mr. Cannon had prostituted his position, one of the most exalted in the nation. He attacked the system under which the House of Representatives is run and declared that the Speaker had blocked the will of the people and had refused to permit the passage of legislation that would ourb the increasing power of the vast combinations.

Washington, October 26th. "The election of William Jennings Bryan to the Presidency will mean that the entire United States will be plunged into a state of industrial 5th, and a special competition for teams on chaos from which no min can say when order will come.

President Roosevelt made this statement to-day in an appeal to the Republican voters to stand by the old party. Mr. Roosevelt said further that there is no man in the world greater friend of labour than Judge Tait, In him the working men have an ally more powerful than their leaders and of calm sober judgment, whose wisdom has been tested by his returning from Stoneoutters at 6.80 p.m. country and who has never been found wanting. He declared that it was not only to the material interest of the working-man, for an industrial upheaval would affect him, materially, but in the interest of his future welfare and happiness that the Republican candidate should win at the polls next week. It is on labour that the disaster that would follow a Democratic victory would fall, he said.

October 29th THE TORTURING OF WITHERES. The Local Authorities here have received communication from Peking in which it is stated that the Court of Appeal in Peking has recently memorialised to the Throne pointing out that, although Imperial edicts have been issued commanding all the officials to abolish the infliction of torture in their yamens, and that His Majesty's sacred orders have been communicated to the officials of all the Provinces in China with instructions to strictly observe and carry them out, it has transpired that in many instances since the edicts were issued, prisoners who ought to be condemned to death for sommitting serious crimes, such as murder. and piracy, have stubbornly refused to confess their orimes. The Court of Appeal suggests that in cases like these the officials might be permitted to inflict torture so as to avoid the unnecessary loss of time in retrying such cases. The Court also suggests that this prevents prisoners charged with outrageous crimes from dying a painful death in the prisons through long imprisonment, thus escaping the lawful death punishment and naturally creating public auspicion that the prison adminis stration is unsatisfactory. As to oriminals wh, have committed offences which are not punishable by death and who obstinately refuse to make confessions and repeatedly plead innocence and make false statements to deceive the Courts in and a cases where it is impossible to extract the truth from the prisoners the Court of Appeal suggests that permission may be granted to the officials to follow the proposal formerly made by His Excellency Kot, Minister of the Board of Punishment, i.e., 'to sanction the infliction of in the outer i rhour this morning, Mr. Wm, Keswick, M.P. THE EIDNAPPING OF SIN TING PING. This matter is having the attention-both of, the Local Authorities and the high officials in Peking. A few days ago the Vicercy received telegram from His Excellency Yuan Shih Kai stating that Sin Ting Ping must be found and released at all cost The Namhol Magistrate and the Military officers are having a busy time now. This morning I was informed that the Kwong Chau General, who was also deputed by the Viceroy a fortnight ago to proceed to Shun Tak to make investigations in this matter, returned to Canton yesterday and reported to the Vicercy that the pirate chief, Luk Liu Ching, has already killed the man and now demands $10.000 to deliver the corpse.

ALLEGED MANSLAUGHTER.

The hearing was concluded of the charge of manslaughter against Chung I, the Attorney. General (Hon Mr. W. Rees Davies, K.C.) instructed by Mr. F. B. L. Bowley, Crown Solicitor, appearing for the Crown.

stone mason. His Lordship-I don't think you can put the case higher than a man who is supervising the work. I don't see any evidence that he undertook to build.

. The Attorney-General-If there is no responsibility on him it will be on nobody.

His Lordship-I think there would be responsibility on a person who undertakes to supervise, but I don't think you can put defendant's case as a case of buildings. It is the case of a supervisor, and the negligence would be in supervising.

The Attorney-General-He was not what you may call an ordinary "gaffer." actually did all the stone work himself.

Prisoner then made a statement in which he said he was neither the contractor nor the builder of these houses. The houses had been in existence for the last five or six years, and during the progress of the work the overseer of the Public Works Department called and inspected them. Defeudant was told he was the successor to Mr. Crisp. If there was anything wrong the inspector should have checked it there and then, instead of that he allowed the work to go on until completion. No complaint understand how brickwork, as bad as this was made about bad materials, and after had been made out to be, could have completion the landlord sent an application to withstood such a very bad typhoon as the Public Works Department for a permit to the typhoen of 1906. It was very unfair of the Public Works Department to say now that the buildings were constructed of bad materials. It cost the land. lord several thousands of dollars to erect these houses, and they collapsed three months ago. The landlord made no complaint, saying it was an "act of God" and could not be helped: It was very unfair to prosecute him for negligence; the Public Works Department ought to have been prosecuted. He would again repeat that he was not the contractor, and leave the case to his Lordship and the gentlemen of the jury to could, in spite of the intervening causes, he

A good deal had been said about dealt with in the statute, and the duty hald on breach of atatute. If a statute laid down the contractor by the statute was to see that certain duties on the persons to whom it applied the law was properly carried out. His Lordship and if those duties were not performed, then informed the jury that if they were of opinion if penalties were provided in the statute that the prisoner undertook the supervision of those penalties must be enforced. But he did not think he could lay down such that the Ordinance was complied with, and it broad proposition as this; that the failure of performance of the duties laid on a person by they were of opinion that he was negligent in the performance of that duty of supervision, statute, which led to death, was manslaughter. and that no intervening cause for which he The building of a house was perfectly lawful, could not be hell responsible caused the collapse but if it was built negligently and death ensued, that would be manslaughter. With regard to him guilty of manulaughter. the defend ont, his Lordship did not think it would be fair to put it that he was the builder. He built the stonework, but the collapse was of both stonework and brickwork. There was no evidence before the jury to show whether the stonework brought the brickwork down, or whether the brickwork brought the stonework down. Therefore he thought the prisoner was entitled to the benefit of that doubt, which would not put him in the place of the builder of the bad work which caused the collapse. The evidence given by the two emeials of the Public Works Department regarding the seemed to him to be rather a criticism which would be offered on a prossoution under the Building Act. CABLE CODE CONDENSING.

We published yesterday an article on the shows subject, detailing a system introduced by the Cable Code Condenser in London. The following letter from Mr. S. J. Williams appears in the Times, in which the details first appeared:--"SIR,-With reference to the article under this heading in your issue of to-day, I should like to be permitted to comment as follows :-"This cable code condenser is, in effect, a nine-figure code (the tenth figure of each word being devoted to checking purposes). "There are systems in existence for reducing 15, 14, 13, 12 11, or 10 figures to pronouncable code words. the idea of condensing figures into letters not being at all new-as is suggested in the article referred to. "Safety, in code words is entirely relative; absolute safety has not yet been gained, nor will it be, until the cable companies amend their methods of transmission.

"In producing artificial code words, care is usually applied to eliminating, as far as possible, combinations of letters which in transmission are easily mutable into other similar combinations. In this instance we have a nine-figure code, and it is therefore, almost certainly afer than, say, a 12 figure code (but, of course, not so the hope that he will re-consider the matter economical to use). But it is also certain that it is not so safe as, say, an eight-figure code, within the scope of the fund. with a two-figure check. Also, I peg leave to express my opinion that there is at least one other nine figure code simpler to use and eafer

"Further, a glib reference is made to the system of checking. Now, it is unfortunately true, that the more efficient a check, the more care is necessary in applying same. Therefore, if as here indicated, the check is applied with ease and simplicity, one may be quite sure that its range of usefulness is strictly limited. "In conclusion, I venture to advise that before purchasing this or any other code, an inspection should be mad- of other codes and a variety little suspected by the non-expert.

GOT NO RELIEF

Which Spread Over Hands, Arms, Neck, and Face Face so Swollen She Could Not See - Doctor Called It incurable—Treated by Many but Grew Steadily Worse

UNTIL WHOLLY CURED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

My wife was cured of eczema about six years ago. It came between her fingers and on the palms. She was adwised by friends first to try one thing and then another but it continued to spread to the elbows. She had the advice of three doctors. The first said there was no cure. The second said the disease was due to the change of air and water - our home being in She continued with him for three months but she still got Much against my wish she ment to the hospital. They gave her a prescription for cintment only. That did not satisfy me, so after a week I west with her to another doctor, as the said he could oure her but it would take time. He attended her five giving her medicine and cint-She soon went from bad to Her hands, neck, and face became swollen. For two days she could not see out of her eyes. I was in terrible trouble. A fellow workman asked me if she had tried Cutioura. His uncle suffered with eczema and found great benefit from the Cuticura Remedies. then got a set for my wife to try. I commenced with great eagerness. For three days she was bathed freely with Cuticura Soap before we could remove the crust of matter and ointment which had formed. Then things began to change, the swelling went down and sha could move her fingers and feed her-We continued using nothing but the Cuticura Remedies and in three months' treatment my wife derived a complete ours. I shall at any time be pleased to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to sufferers. G. Campany. Jubilee House, Hart St., Welsall, Staffs.,

SAILORS AND THE CARNEGIE HERO FUND.

The following correspondence has desnipired between the Imperial Merchant Service Guild and Mr. Carnegie :--

The Imperial Morchant Service Guild. Liverpool, 25th September, 1908. Andrew Carnegie, Esq.

Bir.—I am directed by the Guild, as representing some thirteen thousand Captains and Officers of the British Merchant Service, to express to you their deep feelings of gratitude on learning to-day of the Carnegie Hero Fund which you have instituted, and which is further striking testimosy to your munificence and philanthropy.

It is a fund of particular interest to the Guild having regard to the many brave deeds which occur on the high seas and in which member. of the Guild have lost their lives.

Though you yourself are kind enough to may that the sea is the scene of many heroic acts. your letter which appears in the Press does not exactly say as to how far the fund will apply in the case of sailors. It is unnecessary to say that heroism on their part is, in most cases, performed on the high seas and in foreign waters. As an instance. I am to mention a recent case where a member of the Guild belonging to this City. was presented with the King's Medal in recognition of his heroism in rescuing life under the most difficult and dangerous conditions in the North Atlantic.

The question is, therefore, whether such a case would come within the scope of the lund. We have but little doubt that out of your generosity and consideration for their hardyet vitally important-lot, you would desire all seafaring heroes on all British ships o participate in the fund where the administrators of it thought proper, and could you be good enough to favour us with an expression of opinion to this . ffeo, it would elicit the sincere and lasting gratitude of all British sailors. I am Sir,

Your obedient servant, (Signed) T. W. MOORE, Beoretary.

Skibo Castle, September 29th 1908. DEAR SIR .- Yours of September 25th feceived. Mr. Carnegie does not think it practicable to extent the operation of the Fund beyond the British Islands and the waters thereof. Every case has to be investigated carefully (generally speaking, it shall be on the spot) and promp ly after its occurrence.

JAS. BERTRAM. P. Scoretary. We understand that the Guild are addressing a further communication to Mr. Carnegie in with a view to bringing all British seafarers

Respectfully yours.

INTERPORT CRICKET DINNER.

The Palace Hotel was the scene of the Interport Cricket Match Dinner on Saturday evening last, and once again thanks are due to all responsible for the arrangements the same happy inspiration pervading the change from the Shanghai Club's premises to that of the Palace Hotel, the large dining hall of which served dual purpose—one half being partition-od off for the Dinner, and the other open for ber, All Saints Day. Holy Communion (7.30 the hotel guests. Bunting was tastefully dis-

The Chair was taken by a sturdy veteran in the person of Mr. A. P. Wood, a wielder of the willow in days gone by, and now several years President of the Shanghai Cricket Clab, Mr. W. C. D. Turner, Captain of the Hongkong team, supported him on the right and Mr. E. Walker, Captain of the homesters, on the left.

Mention must be made of the menu cards, which will always remain as souvenirs, their artistic arrangement as set out comprising in addition to the manuitself a complete record of interport matches against Hongkong, the full soores and analysis of the present match, a photo of the combined teams, and a medalion portrait of the Freeident of the Shaughai Cricket Club. The dinner was excellently served and digestion was sided by an excellent selection of music by the Municipal Band, played in the annex to the dining room.

National Anthem, Mr. A. P. Wood expressed his pleasure in once again baring the honour to welcome their guests. He was sure it must have been gratifying to their guests to find that the good old game of cricket had not lost its hold upon Shanghai; there had been a record number of spectators at the match, and keen interest evinced from start to finish, both in the actual play and the personnel of the visitors. Nothing tended to link together in closer ties of innings defeat, and the way they had manfully upheld bie honour of Hong zong by never for one moment becoming downhearted against the great edds they found against them, and in one department of the game they excelled and that was in their fielding, which was of a higher standard than in any previous interport match. Mr. BOURNE briefly replied on behalf of the guests, and humorously related an incident in connection with a cricket match at Can ton which app aled greatly to those present.

An impromptu concert followed the conclusion of the dinner, at which aptains Barrett and Daniels, Messes Platt, Lewis, Raydon and Billings took part.

The list of entertainments connected with the Interport, Week was brought to a close by a garden party given by Mr. A. P. Wood in houour of the Hangkong Cricket team. A large number of guest's partook of Mr Wood's hospitality, and a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon was apent.

RUSSIA AND CAPTURED ENGLISH vessels.

THE CASE OF THE "CALCHAS.

The well-known shipowners Mesers. Alfred Holt, told in our columns, says the Times, the sequel to a story the first chapters of which appeared in The Times of August and October, 1904, The close of the narrative is important for British interests, and we commend the whole matter to the careful consideration of those who will be responsible for the programme of the Maritime Conference, to which this country has called some of the chief States of the world next December. Messrs. Holt's letter relates only to the case of the Calchas, and it is one of no small hardship. But we are fairly confident that the owners of several other vessels, including the Knight Commander, Allanton, and Oldhamia. would be able to tell a somewhat similar tale of long protracted, but futile, efforte to obtain through diplomatic or judicial phannels satisfaction for wrongs done them. The Calchas, a British vessel of tons, worth about £100.000, and not insured, was engaged in the regular trade from Eugland to the Far East and thence to British Columbia and United States ports on the Pacific Coast. On her return voyage to Japan, Hongkong, and Europe she was captured by the Russian Viadivesick squadron about July 25, 1904. She was laden with a general cargo of merchandise for Japan, Hongkong, and Europe, including a consignment of flour for Hongkong and some Admiralty stores for London. In the cargo, which was of a usual kind, the items which were the grounds of seizure were the Hour, 215 tons of sleepers, nine tons of raw cotton, and certain machinery. There was much delay in hearing the case;

the Vladivostok authorities seemed to be more desirous of acquiring the vessel than of justifying the seigure. Ultimately the Court condemned the flour, timber, and cotton destined type, but with an addition that would have for Japan, but acquitted the ship nud-r atechnical rule, common, with some medifical size as supplementary to the rippling waven tions, to several systems of Prize law, drawn back from the forehead, and over this which exempted her from capture if the con- chignon the undulations are carried to a distance traband element was less than—one-half the of four inches or so at the back of the head; she was detained by reason of an appeal against | there is no denying that it is becoming. We need | seen in a not too ripe Victoria plum is in fine, not here revive the discussion of the proposal formulated at The Hague for an International, untrimmed, the upper part of the Princess Prize Court. The Government will take care border one mass of embroidery, which is conwe may assume, to be parties to no Convention which will not guard against a repetition of some of the errors of the Russo-Japanese war. We should be more assured of all this if there was less secrecy and if the country were taken a little into the confidence of the Government. Secrecy has brought about some strange results in this region. In 1856 our representatives at Paris gave up, without consulting Parliament or the country, one of the maritime rights which previous generations had esteemed precious. Last year, at the rague, there was a similar surprise. Without communication with Parlia ment, the right of seizing contraband was abandoned, to the amazement of those who recollected how stronuously England had in the past insisted upon the ample exercise of this right. In framing the programme for the purposes of the Conference aid will be derived from -a study of the decisions of the Japanese Prize Courts, the jude ments of which have just been published in Germany at the instance of the German Forei, n Office and the Reichs-Marine-Amt. The owners and vessels affected were in many cases English. In fact out of fifty-eight cases brought before them more than twenty related to English vessels. Several of the decisions dealt with the legal incidents of rice, wheat, coal, and electrical apparatus when on board neutral vessels-all matters certain to be of consequence in any future naval war. We cannot say that all the decisions a rike one %s. fair and equitable; indeed, the constitution and procedure of a Prize Court are such that complete impartiality is rare. But, as a whole, the decisions contrast is yoursbly with those given by the Russian Prize Courts. It is no small recommendation of them that they appeal to, and in the main are founded upon, English and American precedents .- The Times.

SUNKEN TREASURE.

Sunken treasure has a great fascination for many people, but it is probable that more money has been spent upon attempts to recover these treasures than the total sam recovered from "Davy Jones' looker." The most recent enterprise of the land is the formation of a company which undertakes to recover the half million Bierling which word down in H. M. . Link no. off the coast of/Holland in 1797, aid the attempt is likely to prove successful in view of the fact that the wreck lies in a moderate depth of water. A few years ago, it may be recalled, a Lloyd's surveyor Capt. Stevens-rec vered £100,000 which sank with the Alfonso XII, off the Grand Canary, and his divers, had to work at a deptl of 25 fathoms. Modern release should be equal to facilitating the work of the diver, and inventors may be reminded of the fact that apecia to the value of 28 millions sterling is believed to be lying in Vigo Bay. It may be assumed that the Spanish Government would claim a share of any portion of this treasure that might be recovered by foreign companies. -Naval and Military Record.

FASHIONS AND FANCIES.

LE LIGHT DIRECTORES, The Directoire "line" has caught on with a vengeance. Go to Drury Liane and see it exploited on some of the prettiest figures in London. Every woman in the drama is t irectoire except the landlady and the maids. on the Castie Terrace. And most of the others look as though they had been poured into the gowns so well have they adapted themselves to the "line;" got rid of their hips, done away with the bend of the knees, and rendered invisible what some tailors exphemiatically term " the lower chest."

MEN TO FOLLOW SUIT. But something still is lacking. With women all Directoire or, at the very least, Empire. men should follow suit. It looks all wrong in any fashionable assembly to see the periods so emphatically contrasted. The men are Edwardian. Why can they not adopt the picturesque short-waisted coat, with abnormally long and slender tails, of grey or lavender tan tinted brown, with lapels turned back with velvet collar to match, and large, ties of lawn and lace? To do so would make the pictures of modern society up-to-date. And what a chance for the owner of a leg! George Moredith, in his description of "The Egoist," infers that this possession is a very valuable asset in the world of society But when has it a chance to be seen in the dress of the day? Soldier men manage it somehow by having their trousers made with excessive tightness, even in mufti, but the civilian, except when he goes to Court, has no such chance. Why not remedy all this? The Empire and Directories periods were not the at pioturesque in masculine attire, but they had the advantage of our own disfiguring type with its stove pipe trousers, ugly line of coat, and close cropped hair.

CARHMERE IN AGAIN. This ideal material seldom goes out This bistory and that of some other vessels fashion for very long. It drapes so well, especially in the finer qualities, and falls in soft cashmere, the skirt close-clinging and tinued down the sleeves. The whole of this embroidery is in the red-purple colour of the plum when it is quite ripe and the combination of tints is both novel and agreeable. Another house-dress is in mode-coloured cashmere with a little Empire bolero—one calls it so though it is part and parcel of the gown-very closely braided in pale citron. It has little revers in citron braided on mole colour, and the sleeves are entirely in citron covered with the grey-

THE RAGE FOR MOLE COLOUR. At first sight it did not attract, this rather dingy grey, but it has won upon the world with its silvery high lights and its suitability to he Boft pink and white of the English complexion. Then again, any colour can be combined with it, and is enhanced, by its neutrality. Can anything be prettier than pole pastel blue with mole colding? Soft sunset pink is equally attrictive as a contrast. There is a sha e of wistaria that its quite lovely with this insinuating grey; and in addition there are all the shades of cream, ivory, coru, and old lace. But with these care must be taken that they be not too dingy. Otherwise the effect is lost. There are cleanlooking shades of oven and buige, and there are others that look almost dirty. The latter should never be chosen for any gown, strange to say, there is a decided liking for them. Another colour that is quite charming in combination with mole is pale lemma, or rather that of a newly-gathered ripe lime with a faint reminiscence of its youthful green amid the brighter tiut,. Bruneltes wear this as lining and ruche in their Dutch motor bonnets, and the effect is cazzling, the face looking Very small and refined by contrast with the huge bonnet, and the complexion at its best with the reflects from the citron tint, or its creamy pallor, or soft olive.

HATS STILL GROWING. Truly portentous is the size of the fashionable hat at the present moment. Will it never have done growing? It is obvious that, given very bright colouring, these erections wide and hig : -would be utterly impossible. - Here again mole colour comes to the rescue, and millipers are using ourious metallic shades in the floral trimmings of the large hais. These sombre tones: have yet a glint in them that catches the light Bild relieves the effect. A special slander lilies, for instance, have the petals, in oxidised gold tissue, the veiling in a still darker colour, and the leaves in dull-greenish (frog colour) velvet. A few years ago no one would have looked at such "queer" tints as these for hattriumings but the taste of the well-dressed has, been educated up to them, and they are now accepted as the latest expression of refinement.

DULL METALLESQUE EMBROIDERIES. They go too, with the dull metallesque embroideries now-so-much used on Directoire gowns for outdoor wear. These are massed in prodigality on the front of the bodice, and sometimes a narrow line of them borders the tunie or a wide band trims the front of the

There have been many stories of Carnegie as an employer at Pittsburg, and the dark memory of the Homestead strike, and the slaughter on the banks of the Mocongabela is not yet forgotten; but neither the Steel King nor his manager, Frick-upon whom the blame of the strike episode fell were regarded as unfair or oppressive employers. In his selection of men to build up his fortune Carnegie steered clear as much as possible of Englishmen. A manager once telegraphed to him the news that he had beaten all records in ateelmaking. Carn gie's reply was : "Congratulations; why not do it every week." It need not be wondered at, therefore, that he became the master of a 260,000,000 concerr, which not only owned blast furnaces and rolling mills, but operated railways, water companies, and steam companies, and worked coal lands, coke-ovens, limestone deposits, and ore mines.

Then, at the zenith of his prosperity, when his power was as great as that of many modern monarche, he resolved to withdraw from the dominating position in one of the most peciect human organisations ever constructed. A parting glimpse may be taken at Mr Carnegie in his Scottish home at Skibo Castle. There he is monarch of all he surveys. He has spent much time dabbling in literature, and is proud of the fact that one of his books withal a masterful man, with whom it is not always well to argue. Mr. Morley, among o her statesmen, has been his frequent guest. and one morning he was asked by a fellowguest how he had been spending his-"Oh" he replied with a smile. exposing some of Carnegie's sophisme. few minutes later the same guest his host where Mr. Morley had gone, Mr. Carnegie said, "I guess he's laid up for repairs. I've been arguing with him." Angling and golfing occupy some of the laird of Skibo's spare time when he is not signing these cheques which make the world open its eyes .-W. # NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

THAT "KILLS THE DANDRUFF

ITHOUT dandruff the hair must grow luxuriantly, except in chronic baldness, which is incurable. Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a germ or microbe. To cure dandruff, this germ-a tiny vegetable growth-must be destroyed and kept out of the scalp by Newbro's Herpicide.

A woman to be pretty must have pretty hair. Beautiful locks have a subtle charm, for the poet says, "fair tresses man's imperial race ensuare." The unpoetic and intensely real dandruff microbe makes the hair dull, brittle and lusterless with later dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. Newbro's Herpicide destroys this enemy of beauty and enables the hair to resume its natural luster and abundance. Almost marvelous results sometimes follow the continued use of Herpicide. Overcomes excessive oiliness and makes the hair light and fluffy. It contains, no grease or dye. Stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Discriminating ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide, speak of it in the highest terms, for its almost magical effect upon the scalp, and also for its excellence as a regular hair dressing. It is delightfully fragrant and refreshing.

> "I have found Newbro's Herpicide excellent for the hair. The first application stops itching of the scalp and it leaves the hair soft and silky," (Signed) EDNA D. ALLEN, Syracuse, N. Y

THE SISTERS who direct St. Antonio's L Convent at Macao will be v ry thankful to Shop-keepers, Linen drappers, Clothiers and Tailors in Hongkong, Macao, and elsewhere who will send to them remnants of material, books of patterns no longer used, and any pieces of cloth, no matter how small, of which they caunot make use.

Those who send will thus, at no cost to themselves, afford the numerous hands in the convent, especially the little ones, opportunity for useful occupation; for pieces of cloth, even of a square inch, can be stitched together and very pretty pieces of work made out of cloth, that would otherwise be thrown away. These articles are i ought by charitable persons and the Sisters are thus helped to keep up their very large establishment, which is maintained by the alms of friends and in a great measure by the earnings of the girls themselves, who lead by no means an idle life within the conven
